Host a Church Game Night — the Printable Kit

By Paul, dad of 8. Every question here has survived our own family game nights.

Everything a youth pastor, children's director, or small-group host needs to run a great game night with zero budget and one TV. Print this page, follow the run-of-show, and you're done planning. The game itself — Faith Family Showdown, a feud-style survey game with Christian question packs — is free to play in a browser: no installs, no player accounts, no IT ticket.

What you need

- A TV or projector that can show a webpage (smart TV browser, or any laptop + HDMI).
- For team-vs-team party mode: two phones (one per team captain) on Wi-Fi or data.
- Chairs in two rough team sections, and a table for snacks. That's the list.

Setup — 15 minutes before

1. Open faithshowdown.com on the big screen and make sure sound comes through the room speakers (tap Start once — browsers need one tap before they'll play audio).
2. Choose your format: whole room vs. the Bot on one screen (simplest), or Host a Party for team-vs-team — the TV shows a QR code and each team captain scans it with their phone to join. No app to install.

3. Pick a question pack and round count (3 rounds ≈ 20 minutes of play).
4. Appoint two team captains and split the room into mixed-age teams.

Run of show — 60 minutes

0:00 Doors, snacks, music. Teams find their sections.

0:10 Welcome + rules in 90 seconds: shout answers to the captain, popular answers score, three strikes and the other team can steal.

0:15 Game 1 — three rounds. Play up the reveals; let the room argue with the board.

0:35 Halftime: snack refill, swap in new captains so more people drive.

0:40 Game 2 — the rematch. The final-round bonus keeps the trailing team alive to the end.

0:55 Wrap-up: read one round reflection aloud, one short prayer, announce the next game night.

> 🎉 Family Game Night at church! Join us [DATE] at [TIME] in [ROOM] for a big-screen Bible survey showdown — shout your answers, score with the crowd, and see which team takes the crown. All ages, zero Bible-trivia pressure, snacks provided. Bring the whole family!

Tip: mixed-generation teams (kids + grandparents together) make the best games — the questions reward both.

Going unplugged instead?

If your venue has no screen, print our free bank of 40 Bible feud-style questions with ranked answers and run the same night read-aloud style with a whiteboard for scores.
